SERVING GREATER MILWAUKEE

Who's the leader in your market?

From The Business Journal of Milwaukee Book of Lists 2004

DAN JESSUP
PRESIDENT
APEX COMMERCIAL INC.

REAL ESTATE

Birthplace: Park Forest, Ill.

Family: Wife, Patricia; four girls, Kelly 9, Teagan 7, Lauren 5, Erin 2.

Education: B.S. business administration, Marquette University

Community involvement: Family Unity International - board of directors; Commercial Association of Realtors, Wisconsin - past president; Special Olympics past volunteer.

Proudest professional accomplishments: To serve and represent my peers in commercial real estate as president of the Commercial Association of Realtors Wisconsin. The formation of Apex Commercial Inc. I am honored to have each and every team member. Our team approach continues to provide us with great success.

Milwaukee area's greatest asset: The quality of life, an above-average standard of living, a below average daily commute, and a below average crime rate, combined with Milwaukeeans' solid work ethic, diverse culture, traditional family values, and a never-ending willingness to help others make this a great city in which to live, work, play and visit.

Milwaukee's area's greatest challenge: To reduce the city's above average unemployment rate while simultaneously lowering income, property and business taxes.

Name I would add to this leadership category: Bill Schwartz, director of development, Interstate Partners
